WILLIAM MCKINLEY.

THE uniformed members of the Mc-Kinley and Hobart Club will meet promptly at the Court House this evening, at 6:45 o'clock, in full uniform, for a short drill preparatory to escorting the speaker to the Auditorium.
Seats will be reserved for them.

At the reunion of the 1st Ohio, held near Columbus last week, a vote of the members was taken and out of 85, 81 were for McKinley, sound money and protection. Significant, indeed.

Fixing the Price of Silver

One of Mr. Bryan's favorite statements is to the effect that any purchaser who stands ready to take the entire supply of any article at a certain price can prevent that article from falling below that price; and so the Government can fix a price for gold and silver by creating a demand greater than the supply. This sounds well, but it is irrelevant and misleading.
Of course, if the United States should offer to buy all the silver in the world at a fixed price, with the assurance of ability to do so, nobody would sell silver at any lower price. But this has nothing to do with the question of free and unlimited coinage. That theory does not involve the idea of the buying of silver bullion by the Government. It means that the owner of the bullion shall be allowed to take it to the mint and have it coined and returned to him in the form of silver dollars—only that and nothing more.
Under such a policy there would not be a single ounce of silver purchased.
The bullion would not change ownership by reason of passing through the mint and coming out as coin; and the only function of the Government in the case would be that of certifying to the amount of silver contained in the coins.

Mr. Bryan's way of stating the matter conveys the idea that the Government would purchase and coin the bullion on its own account, and that all of its power would be exerted to keep such currency at par. This is a gross deception, whether intentional or not.
Mr. Bryan knows very well that free and unlimited coinage is a proposition to dispense with the protection that the Government now gives to silver, and simply require it to coin for the owners all the bullion that may be presented. As for the fixing of a price, that would depend entirely upon conditions outside of the act of coinage.
The relation of the Government to the transaction would be merely that of an agent, without any responsibility except that of accuracy in weighing and stamping the metal. In other words, the prop that now sustains the silver dollar—the pledge to maintain the parity of the two metals—would be withdrawn, and the new dollars would have to stand on their own merits, which is to say that they would be worth only the value of the silver contained in them. This point is one that can not be too often repeated. It is of more importance than any other in the pending controversy, because it shows the fallacy of the free coinage scheme so far as the continuance of the present advantage of the silver currency is concerned. That advantage would at once disappear, and the inevitable result would be a shrinkage of value to the extent of the difference between the actual and the nominal value of such money. (Globe Dem.)

Osborne Escaped.

Monday morning Marshal James Parlin started to Caldwell over the C. & M., having in charge Robert Osborne, who recently broke jail at that place, where he is under indictment for burglarizing the office of the Adams Express Company, and who was arrested here Saturday morning. Osborne had already earned the reputation of being a slick criminal and is evidently still doing business at the old stand.

When the train was a few miles out of this city and running at full speed he asked permission to go into the water closet which was granted. He was not handcuffed, but the Marshal thought no sane man would attempt to leave a train going at such speed, and allowed him to go to the closet alone.
Osborne had no sooner shut the door behind him than he threw up the window and made a desperate and successful leap for liberty.

Before the train could be stopped it was almost half a mile from the spot where the prisoner alighted and when the Marshal hurried back the elusive rascal had disappeared from sight. An attempt was made to trace him with blood hounds, but the dogs were ineffective and he is still at large.

A reward of $25 was offered by the Noble county authorities for his capture and Officer Wellbrook, who arrested him, is mourning the loss of the nest little sum.

Hendricks, Osborne's partner in the robbery of the old man Starkey at Parkerburg Friday evening will be taken back to the scene of his crime today, if he too does not take French leave of his captors.

In Oldom.

The Whipple Oil Co., composed of a number of well known farmers, have been drilling on the Pemberton Palmer farm in Salem township, with astonishing results. They reached the pay at a depth of 78 feet and got a showing for a nice little producer. This is one of the shallowest wells in this section.

On Monday C. B. Fulton & Co. disposed of their holdings at Waverly to Sheffield & Co., of Warren, Pa., consideration not stated. The transfer involves about 45 acres of territory with seven producing wells. The purchasers will continue to operate the property.

Another sale on Monday was that by which Dan Hannen disposed of his one third interest in the Happy Hollow lease to T. W. Harvey, of Chicago.

Another gusher was placed to the credit of the Waverly field yesterday.
This latest gusher to claim the attention of the talent was ushered in by Smith, Shay & Co. It is located on a four acre tract of land, immediately in Waverly, which is owned by an old colored man named Henry Thomas.
The strike bears no sensational earmarks. It is clearly in defined territory and the well starts off like all the rest of the shallow producers in that field. This makes the second well drilled on Thomas's small tract, but it is the first producer, the other being as dry as a gourd. Both holes are comparatively closely located. Freaks like these mentioned are the rule and not the exception in shallow territory.—

Resolutions of Condolence.

At the 24th Annual Reunion of the survivors of the 77th Ohio Vol. Inf't. held in this city September 2d the names of 12 members were reported having died since the last reunion, and the Committee appointed by the President to draft Resolutions of Condolence, offered the following:

WHEREAS, The Supreme Commander of the universe has summoned from our ranks our beloved comrades, Col. J. B.
Kinkead, Lt. W. P. Richner, Anthony B. Smith, Frank Sanford, John Hook, Aaron Hoover, Franklin Wiggins, Enos D. Hardin, Solomon Mercer, John Block, James Elrod and Mortimer Buskirk, to answer the "last roll call" on earth and report for duty in the ranks of the Grand Army above, we are reminded, that while our Roster is growing perceptibly shorter each year, the Roster of our Grand Commander above is growing proportionately in length, and that over a third of a century has passed since we were the "Boys in Blue," and in our youth first gave the response of "here," in old Camp Tupper, to roll call; therefore be it

RESOLVED, that while we bow in humble submission to Him from whom emanates our last command on earth, and our hearts are filled with sorrow, we tender the families of our deceased comrades this humble expression of profound sorrow and ask them to look to Him who doeth all things well.

est fires were discovered in several places south and east of this city Sunday. A terrific gale blew all day and has caused the fire to spread. As far as known no great damage has been done, although valuable pine and other property is in danger of being swept away if the wind keeps up its fury. It is reported that small fires are burning three miles south of this city.
